14-Year-Old Jillian Makes an Impact at Her School

Josh Brahm interviews local student Jillian and her mom. After interviewing Josh and Kyle, Jillian wrote a paper and gave a pro-life speech to her entire class, and got very positive feedback from her teacher as well as her fellow students. Even more impressive: Jillian is just 14-years-old! Listen to her inspiring story here.

Come to Our Advanced Pro-Life Training Next Thursday!

Josh Brahm will be presenting all new material that's geared towards pro-lifers who want to be ready to dialogue with their well-informed pro-choice friends and colleagues.

Josh will explain how to respond to "bodily rights" arguments, including a brand new pro-life argument he's helped create to respond to the ultimate pro-choice argument. Josh will also train you to respond to advanced personhood arguments, including the assertions that sentience is a necessary condition for personhood and that species is morally irrelevant. The session will end with Q & A.

Please plan to join us!

When: Thursday evening, 7/27, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Where: RLCC Office: 1742 E Griffith Way, Fresno

Food? No dinner, but appetizers and coffee

Pro-Lifers Need to Be Factually Accurate about Fetal Development

by Josh Brahm

If you've followed my work, you know that one of my main passions is helping pro-life people to use the best arguments and talking points for the pro-life position. I know there are some pro-choice advocates who are not open-minded enough to listen to what we have to say, but if you're talking to one and he does end the conversation prematurely, I want it to be because he is being intellectual dishonest. In other words, we shouldn't give such people one good reason to stop listening to what we have to say. Unfortunately, I see pro-lifers legitimately lose credibility with pro-choice people all the time, sometimes by using faulty arguments (yes, there are commonly used faulty pro-life arguments) and sometimes by sharing things that are blatantly false. There are several popular ones going around Facebook right now that make me wince, but I don't have time to get into all of them right now. I'll save them for future posts.

Former Life Report Co-Host Carrie Guy Shares Her Abortion Story

Former Life Report co-host Carrie Guy is beloved by many fans. She brought something different to the show, as a youth pastor and a post-abortive pastor's kid. She left the show last year when she had her first child, but she's back for a special episode to share her story that includes having an abortion as a teen, her recovery process later, and her passion for helping other post-abortive women. Carrie also talks about how the modern church can respond to the abortion issue as well as tips for talking to pregnant women who are considering abortion.

Quote of the Month

"This was the best, most clarifying discussion I have heard on how to vote pro-life. Both my husband and I are committed to principled votes in that sense, but now understand more of the political goals inherent. So glad I subscribe to your videos, they are terrific viewing, keep up the great work."

Far Right: New RLCC Outreach Intern Gabi Vehrs

One of our pre-outreach "Abortion - From Debate to Dialogue" trainings, as well as the outreach at FCC. This was the best outreach we've ever had! Amazing dialogues happened and a lot of people said they changed their mind about abortion after talking to our trained volunteers.

Josh Brahm Interviewed on WGSO

Download the audio-only MP3 (21 min)

Listen to WGSO talk show host Jeff Crouere interview Josh Brahm, asking the following questions:

- 1: You believe that if they communicate the pro-life position properly, that any pro-life person can go toe-to-toe with any pro-choice advocate, is that right?
- 2: Don't we see a reduction of abortions across the country?
- 3: What is it within the pro-choice message that you can find common ground with?
- 4: You still want to see Roe vs. Wade overturned, right? What would that look like on a national level?
- 5: California is definitely a hostile state to pro-life causes. Does it help that there's such a large influx of Latino people who are often Catholic, and thus, pro-life?

6: Won't ultrasounds have a dramatic impact on this issue?

7: Is adoption an area where both pro-life and pro-choice people can find common ground?

8: Do you think abortion-minded women realize that there are couples available to adopt their baby?

Callers:

1: "I think it's horrible that the government is using abortion as a political way to control people."

2: "I don't think we should try to find common ground with someone who thinks it's okay to kill a baby!"

3: "The abortion rate is going down because RU-486 isn't being counted."
